

I am supportive of the federal government's ability to tap internet broadband and viop providers. I believe that current security threats warrant such measures.